The best movies on Netflix can be hard to find, but we're not likely to run out of great films any time soon. There's plenty to choose from, whether you're looking for the best action movies, sci-fi, or horror films. Here are some recommendations:

Scandinavian Crime Fiction

The novel's turning to crime fiction for inspiration is naturally not a new phenomenon. The works of writers as diverse as Joseph Conrad, Agatha Christie, and Dostoevsky have all explored the dark side of human nature. The Brothers Karamazov is a perfect example of psychological realism in which Dostoevsky delves deep into the ethical dilemmas of God, free will, and morality. It is a spiritual drama of moral conflict.

The Brothers Karamazov

This covertly implied identity of victim and villain can be traced from such examples as Dr. Frankenstein's inescapable entanglement with his creation, through Dostoevsky's Grand Inquisitor, to the modern-day equivalents of Satan in the stories of Charles Dickens and Fyodor Dostoevsky. The term "mystical realism" was coined by the Russian writer Fedor Mikhaylovich Dostoevsky to describe his writing as "uncanny." Golyadkin in Dostoevsky's The Double experiences such a moment when passing a stranger in a snowstorm who looks exactly like himself.

The Cambridge Companion to Russian Literature

Many Russian novels of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries have made a huge impact, not only inside the boundaries of their own country but across the western world. The Cambridge Companion to Russian Literature offers a comprehensive guide to the major works and authors, as well as to the cultural, political, and historical contexts in which they were written.

The Rise and Fall of Anti-utopia: Utopia, Gothic Romance, Dystopia

This book explores the development of Russian realism and the Russian novel in the context of contemporary intellectual history. Specific topics include the Russian literature and its influence on modern literature, the Russian novel and its relationship to the Russian language, and the role of Russian literature in the Age of Enlightenment.

Dostoevsky and Romantic Realism: A Study of Dostoevsky in Relation to Balzac, Dickens, and Gogol

In the present chapter I discuss the inner logic and consequences of his literary struggle with spiritualism, which he perceived as the most radical expression of Romantic idealism. 6 The ghostly paradoxes: modern spiritualism and Russian culture in the age of realism

- Dostoevsky and Romantic Realism: A Study of Dostoevsky in Relation to Balzac, Dickens, and Gogol

- The Brothers Karamazov by Fyodor Dostoevsky

- Poor Folk (Russian: Бедные люди, Bednye lyudi), sometimes translated as Poor People, is the first novel by Fyodor Dostoevsky, written over the span of nine months between 1844 and 1845. Dostoevsky was in financial difficulty because of his extravagant lifestyle and his developing gambling addiction, although he had produced some translations of foreign novels, they had little success.

- The Definition of Psychological Realism

  Sep 20, 2019 - An excellent example of psychological realism (although the author himself didn't necessarily agree with the classification) is Fyodor Dostoevsky's "Crime and Punishment." This 1867 novel (first published as a series of stories in a literary journal in 1866) centers on Russian student Raskolnikov and his plan to murder an elderly woman in order to steal her money and use it for good works.
